Pursley Friese Torgrimson Adds Travis D. Hughes as Of Counsel

Atlanta law firm Pursley Friese Torgrimson announced the addition of Travis D. Hughes. He joined the firm on July 17 as of counsel.

“With the addition of Travis, we continue to grow our commercial real estate practice in Atlanta,” said Managing Partner Stephanie Friese. “He is a passionate and knowledgeable attorney who will be an important asset to our transactional team and a benefit to our clients.”

Hughes will represent commercial real estate investors, landlords and tenants in various types of office transactions, including leasing, acquisitions, and dispositions.

“I am excited to join the team at Pursley Friese Torgrimson,” said Hughes. “PFT is a firm that has a proven track record of achieving for its clients meaningful results that impact their bottom lines.”

Previously, Hughes served as vice president of transaction services in the Atlanta office of a national commercial real estate brokerage firm.

He graduated from Washington University School of Law and received his undergraduate degree from Harvard University. He is licensed with the State Bar of Georgia, the Missouri Bar, and the Georgia Real Estate Commission.
