ATLANTA ATTORNEY STEPHANIE FRIESE NAMED BEST MENTOR BY THE DAILY REPORT

ATLANTA, June 28, 2018 - Pursley Friese Torgrimson is pleased to announce that managing partner Stephanie Friese has been selected as a Best Mentor from a small firm by the Daily Report, the leading legal publication of metro Atlanta and Georgia. Friese was recognized at the Georgia Legal Awards on Thursday, June 28 at the Georgian Terrace in Atlanta.

A founding and managing partner of Pursley Friese Torgrimson, Friese is an experienced commercial real estate attorney in both transactional and litigation matters. She represents businesses that own and develop property, as well as lenders, owners and investors involved in financing, acquisitions and dispositions of commercial office and industrial properties across the nation. Because of her strong will to advocate and litigate for her clients, she is involved in all aspects of commercial real estate transactions. Prior to founding the firm, she owned Friese Legal for 13 years, one of the first woman-owned and woman-managed law firms certified by Women's Business Enterprise National Council.

Friese has been recognized for numerous awards in the past. She has held leadership roles and is active in various organizations in the legal and real estate communities, including the Atlanta Bar Association, Georgia Association for Women Lawyers, Atlanta Commercial Board of Realtors and Commercial Real Estate Women (CREW) Atlanta. Friese has served as an excellent leader to young women aspiring to work in the legal and real estate fields while sustaining her own successful career in those fields.

She received her undergraduate degree from Stetson University and her law degree from the University of Georgia School of Law, graduating with cum laude honors from both. She is also a graduate of the CREW Atlanta Leadership program.
